Audience

This course is designed for credit management, collections, and accounts receivable professionals who wish to strengthen their skills and advance their careers as Collection Managers. It is particularly suited for:

- Collection Managers and Supervisors
- Credit Analysts and Account Managers
 - Accounts Receivable Specialists
- Financial Controllers and Accountants
- Business professionals involved in credit and debt recovery

Training Methodology

The PCM training course uses an interactive and hands-on approach to learning, combining theory with practical application. Participants will engage in instructor-led discussions, case studies, and scenario-based exercises that reflect real-world challenges in collections management. Each course section is supported by group activities and role-playing exercises, where participants can practise negotiation skills, client communication, and strategic decision-making.

The course also provides sample credit evaluation forms, reporting templates, and negotiation scripts, giving participants tools that can be directly applied to their work. Practice exercises focus on managing challenging cases, enabling participants to explore different strategies for dealing with overdue accounts and difficult clients. Digital resources, such as study materials, self-assessment quizzes, and mock scenarios, reinforce learning and enable participants to practice independently.

Throughout the course, experienced instructors provide feedback, offering insights into best practices and areas for improvement. This structured approach ensures participants understand theoretical concepts and build the confidence and skills to effectively manage accounts receivable.

Summary

The Professional Collection Manager (PCM) training course is designed to equip credit and collections professionals with the skills and knowledge to manage and optimise accounts receivable effectively. As businesses strive for efficient cash flow management, the role of a Collection Manager has become increasingly vital. This course covers the fundamental and advanced aspects of credit management, collections strategies, customer relationship management, and legal considerations, providing participants with the tools needed to succeed in this challenging field.

Throughout the PCM training, participants will explore key topics, including risk assessment, credit scoring, negotiation techniques, debt recovery strategies, and applying ethical and legal practices in collections. They will learn how to manage customer accounts proactively, mitigate risks associated with non-payment, and implement strategies that ensure timely collection without damaging client relationships. By focusing on industry best practices, participants will understand how to create sustainable processes that support their organisation's financial health.

The PCM training course is ideal for credit and collections professionals, including Collection Managers, Credit Analysts, and Account Managers who aim to advance their careers in accounts receivable management. The course combines theory with practical insights, allowing participants to practise collection strategies through case studies and role-playing exercises. Upon completion, participants will have a deeper understanding of collection management and will be well-prepared to contribute to their organisation's financial goals by enhancing cash flow and minimising bad debt.
